

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

FRIDAY EVE., MARCH 10, 1882.

THE President has appointed Mr. L. C. Dameron, to be postmaster, at Portsmouth, Ohio, in place of Captain Gibbs.

MUCH alarm is felt at Lexington as to the safety of the fruit crop. It is feared the late cold snap has done much injury, as pears apples and peaches are already in bloom.

IN the committee of the whole in the United States Senate Senator Ingall's amendment to the Chinese Bill fixing ten years as the time of immigration was defeated by a tie vote.

THE bill of exceptions in the Guiteau case to be filed with the court in banc for a new trial, has been completed and is now in the hands of District Attorney Corkhill for review. Scoville is at work on a book in which he proposes to show that the prosecution was unfair and that prisoner was not given the rights he was entitled to have.

GOV. BLACKBURN has stated to a correspondent of the Louisville Commercial, that it is his intention to respite Neal and Craft, sentenced to be hanged April 14th, for the Ashland murders. The Governor thinks there is sufficient doubt of their guilt to warrant a suspension of their execution until their cases can be fully investigated.

STORIES of suffering and appeals for help still come from inundated districts. People and stock are famishing for want of food. The reports from the lower Mississippi are growing worse. The country below Memphis is one sheet of water. Around Greenville, Miss., the situation is most deplorable. The water is still spreading. The Arkansas is still rising at Helena. The levee broke above that city Sunday night, and the citizens are greatly alarmed. The secretary has issued an order for 5,000 rations to be distributed at Hickman, Ky., among the sufferers.

MR. McKENNA, of West Virginia, has introduced a bill in the House of Representatives to create a new cabinet position—the office of Secretary of the Department of Industries. It is proposed to establish this department for collecting and disseminating all important and useful information concerning agriculture and such scientific matters and industrial pursuits as relate to the interests of agriculture. The bureaus of the department are to be first, that of Agricultural Products; which shall include divisions of States and Territories and shall report such practical information as will benefit agriculturists; second, the Bureau of Animal Industries, which shall investigate and report upon the number, value and condition of the domestic animals of the United States; their production, growth and use; the causes prevention or cure of contagious, or other diseases, and the kinds, races and breeds best adapted to the several sections for profitable raising. The third, is the Bureau of Lands, the Chief of which is to investigate and report upon the resources or capabilities of the public or other lands for farming, stock raising, timber, manufacturing, mining or other industrial uses. In addition to these Bureaus there is to be in the Department a Division of Commerce, presided over by a Commissioner, who like the Secretary receives a salary of $5,000.

How Guiteau is Treated.

Washington Despatch.

"Two cells are at his disposal, one of which he uses as an office and the other as a sleeping apartment. The office is furnished with several chairs, a desk and writing materials. He has numerous visitors, from whom he realizes $25 to $30 per day by the sale of autographs and photographs. He exhibited four pictures in different positions, recently taken, saying he preferred those in which the face was turned to the side. The proceeds of this traffic afford him the means of supplying himself with various comforts and the daily newspapers. When visitors appear at the door of his cell he invites them to enter, encouraging the timid with the assurance that he will not hurt them. He displays the air of a busy man of affairs, much in earnest and entirely sane, entertaining visitors as would become a man in the position of a host perfectly at ease."
